

LUTE

Written by

Chris Zell

EXT. STREET - DAY

MAN walking down street. At first he's happy. Slowly music from a solitary instrument can be heard. At first the Man doesn't think he is hearing what he hears. But when he realizes he is hearing what he thinks he's hearing he becomes enraged.

The Man looks around until he finds the sound. Once he sees it he races out of frame.

CUT TO:

EXT. STREET - CONTINUOUS

A LUTE PLAYER is leaning against the wall playing their lute. That has been the music we've been hearing.

The Man storms up to the Lute Player and stops the Lute Player from playing. The Lute Player is alarmed.

MAN

Are you out of your mind? This is a luting free zone.

The Lute Player exits left. The now smugly satisfied Man exits right.